

Strictly limited three night run!

Notorious* Proudly Presents

Michele A'Court & Jeremy Elwood

You've seen them on the TV, you've heard them on the radio, you've read their column, now is your chance to see this super great pair of comics doing their best bits in one show.

Husband and wife Michele A'Court and Jeremy Elwood don't often get a chance to do a split bill together like this. Performing 30min of stand up each, it's a great way to whet your appetite for both their styles of comedy.

From political satire, to other kinds of satire, and dick jokes, they have the spectrum covered. Wellington is the perfect audience for their irreverent and insightful take on just how things are.

Michele is a household name, known for having started out on kids show What Now in the '80s, and now a regular on National Radio, 7 Days, and of course her best-selling book "Stuff I Forgot To Tell My Daughter".

Meanwhile Jeremy has added to his impressive list of achievements by being the head writer for hit Three show "The Project". It might be a full time job, but it doesn't stop him getting out at night gigging from Whangarei to Invercargill.

Both are really excited to be performing at San Fran, which has been supporting New Zealand comedy for over 15 years.

This show is a Wellington exclusive and for only three nights as they were determined to fit a show in together amongst their busy schedules. With strong ties to the city, Michele went to the University of Victoria, they can't wait to spend some time.
